17th Student Representative Assembly
Proposal Work Report (draft)

Respected teachers, distinguished guests, and fellow representatives,
I have been entrusted by the Preparatory Group to present the report on proposal work to all of you.

Proposal work is an important component of the 18th Student Representative Assembly and serves as a significant form of student involvement in campus development. In the following report, I will provide an overview of the proposal collection and organization, proposal follow-up, and subsequent work.

I. Proposal Collection and Organization

Proposals were collected from all undergraduate students enrolled in JI, with each class submitting proposals as a unit. To ensure the quality of the proposals, the Proposal Work Group emphasized the effectiveness and feasibility during the collection process, ensuring that each proposal had space for further research and resolution. The proposal collection work received great support and assistance from college leaders, faculty advisors, and fellow students. The Proposal Work Group also actively interpreted the specific requirements of the proposals to students, ensuring the smooth progress of the collection work.

After collection, the Proposal Work Group organized all the proposals. A total of 41 proposals were collected through various channels, including emails and the Student Right Center piazza, including 20 proposals related to teaching and research, 13 proposals related to logistical support, 4 proposals related to college development, and 4 proposals related to extracurricular activities. Among them, the Proposal Work Group conducted research on 36 proposals based on on-site visits and online questionnaires. The college also held multiple special meetings to discuss and exchange ideas on the proposals raised by students. Finally, based on the research and feedback results, the Proposal Work Group integrated all the research reports and organized them into four major sections.

II. Proposal Follow-up

On May 17th, the college held a down-hall meeting with the dean, department heads, and students to have in-depth discussions on the proposal contents. The college highly values the issues that students are concerned about and has actively taken measures to implement the relevant proposals after the meeting. Now, I will briefly report on the progress of several proposals that have received significant attention from students. For more detailed and comprehensive feedback on the proposals, please visit the Student Union's official account to obtain the latest documents.

1. Regarding the proposal to further clarify the Honor Code, the college has organized themed courses to introduce the specific requirements of the Honor Code to freshmen. It plans to implement more training on Honor Code in TA workshops and requires professors to clearly indicate violations of the Honor Code in course syllabus. The college also plans to update the Honor Code regulations promptly on the official website and compile and publish examples of typical violations in the past few years to help students better understand the definition of the Honor Code.

2. Regarding the proposal to improve the conference room booking system in Longbin Building, the college's IT office is in discussions with SJTU Network Information Office to ensure that data is sent to the IT office and card information is promptly recorded for new card replacements. For students who need to replace their cards at present, it is recommended to visit the college's IT office to activate the campus card.

3. Regarding the proposal to provide training on fire safety and first aid, the college recently conducted a fire drill in the Longbin Building and plans to hold themed courses on safety.

III. Subsequent Work

The proposals for this Assembly have received many effective responses, but some of the work requires a long-term process for resolution. The Proposal Work Group of the Preparatory Group plan to further develop a mechanism for safeguarding rights and improve proposal awareness for the subsequent handling of the proposals.

Jl welcomes any reasonable opinions and suggestions from students. As the largest student organization in Jl, the Student Union is gradually proposing new ways to collect daily proposals and address issues. Currently, the Student Union has standardized the Piazza proposal repository, continuously lowered the formatting requirements for proposals, and made proposal collection a daily and convenient task.

Finally, on behalf of the Preparation Group, I would like to express gratitude to all the students and various departments of the college for their attention and support to the proposal work of the congress. We also hope that all Jl students will continue to actively participate in the development of the institute and the university, objectively put forward constructive suggestions, and work together for the future of Jl!

Guard , Connection, Creativity
——The 17th Student Union Work Report of
UM-SJTU JI Student Union(Draft)

Distinguished leaders, esteemed guests, and dear student representatives,

Good afternoon!

On behalf of the 17th Student Union of UM-SJTU Joint Institute and the Preparatory Committee of the 18th Student Representative Congress, I warmly welcome everyone here. We extend our sincere appreciation to the SJTU Student Union, student unions of sister departments, and supportive leaders and teachers who have contributed to our institute's student organizations.

In the past year, under the guidance of SJTU Youth League Committee and Party Committee, we have remained committed to representing, serving, and leading students. We have made significant contributions to enriching JI culture, organizing student activities, enhancing faculty-student communication, and supporting student development.

Now, I will present the work report on behalf of the Presidium of the 17th Student Union of UM-SJTU Joint Institute for your consideration.

Part 1

Guard: Serving Student's Multi-sided Need

First, we provide a shining stage to enrich JI life.

During the fall semester, the Art Department organized the Glimmer Art Exhibition, held in Longbin Building, aiming to showcase the wonderful moments captured in life and find flashes of brilliance in ordinary life. In the middle of the spring semester, the grand opening of the JI Cultural and Arts Festival, Prologue, allowed JI students to enjoy a beautiful campus culture, where the faculty and students of JI jointly presented a variety of performances, offering the audience a splendid audio-visual feast. The Blossom Spring Ball was held in late March, with dress code, dance training, and a mini-program for matching dance partners to ensure a wonderful experience for the participants. The ball was filled with spectacular moments and stories of romance. Summit JI Top-Ten Singer Contest, held in late May, showcases JI students' voice and talent with aspiration and ambition.

Second, we build up multi-platform for friendship and connection.

The External Group of the Liaison Department organized the Boy's Day, including a wish card drifting event, jointly held by the JI Student Union, Antai College of Economics and Management, and the School of Medicine. The Internal Group of the Liaison Department organized a series of activities for Girl's Day from late February to early March, including exchanging wish cards, making desserts, and painting T-shirts.

In terms of sports activities, the autumn "Freshman Cup" sports event covers basketball, table tennis and badminton, providing the opportunity for the new freshmen to familiarize themselves with the campus and make friends. The Spring "JI Cup" includes basketball, soccer, table tennis, badminton and other events to promote sports friendship between undergraduate and graduate students in all grades.

Third, we offer hardcore tech support in various aspects.

During freshman enrollment, the Student Union hold the Freshman Orientation, assisting newcomers in quickly adapting to their new environment, from course selection to network activation. Over the past year, the Media Department has organized workshops on topics such as Photoshop, Premiere, and design, enhancing students' aesthetic skills. The Technical Department has organized workshops on VS Code, Bash, Vim, LaTeX, git and other topic, improving students' skills in engineering disciplines, injecting moments of surprise into their daily lives, and reflecting the unique characteristics of JI. During the Mechanical Keyboard and Reflow workshop, students created a DIY design and soldered for mechanical keyboards and electronic cats, creating unique digital accessories. Additionally, VS Code plugin JOJ Tool brings great convenience to green hands in coding.

Last but not least, we focus on careers to support students' development.

The Career Department continuously pays attention to the career development of JI students. In the past year, the department has inherited and developed a series of distinctive activities. At the beginning of the semester, the compilation of "Embark at JI" helped the new students quickly adapt to JI life. During regular days, the Career Mentorship Program arranges long-term communication between students and alumni to helping with students' life planning, allowing them to exchange questions and share life stories. Regularly released internship recruitment information provides students with more opportunities to conveniently find internships. Alumni back-campus activities allow students to listen to alumni experiences and interact with them face to face, broadening their horizons and discovering more possibilities. At the end of the year, the release of "Annual Big Data" summarized the department's activities over the year and collected students' thoughts and suggestions regarding the department's official account. In addition, this year, the Career Department collaborated with the Student Science and Technology Innovation Association to organize face-to-face mentorship programs, giving students interested in scientific research the opportunity to have one-on-one conversations with mentors, allowing for a deeper understanding of scientific research.

Part 2

Connection: Bridging for Communication

First, promoting collaboration and communication: student union internal connections.

The Student Union presidium regularly organizes internal joint meetings within the Student Union, including the Plenary Meeting for Spring Semester, aiming to discuss internal affairs, resolve issues, and enhance communication and cooperation among members. Various department ministers are invited to attend these meetings. Before each meeting, the Student Union presidium develops a JISU Agenda, outlining the topics for discussion and allocating time slots. This ensures efficient conduct of the meeting and guarantees thorough discussion and resolution of all important matters. The agenda primarily includes providing a platform for members to collectively address and resolve issues within their respective departments. The joint meetings serve as a crucial forum for interdepartmental communication and collaboration, enabling representatives from different departments to share progress, challenges, and coordination needs. This fosters collaboration across departments, working towards the overall goals of the Student Union. Members are encouraged to share their observations and suggestions to improve the work and activities of the Student Union. Following the conclusion of each meeting, the minutes are compiled and archived for future reference and progress tracking. Through these meetings, the Student Union has established close connections among its various departments.

Second, serving as a bridge: student union's role in addressing student rights.

Furthermore, the Student Union serves as a communication bridge between students and faculty members. It actively addresses student concerns and questions through feedback and proposals. Over the last year, the Student Union has handled numerous proposals, covering areas such as teaching and research, logistical support, institutional development, extracurricular activities, and more. Detailed research is conducted through methods like on-site visits and online surveys. The Student Union organizes dedicated meetings with faculty members to discuss and exchange ideas regarding the proposed initiatives. These meetings provide an important platform for dialogue and cooperation between Student Union members and faculty leaders, ensuring student concerns and suggestions are effectively communicated. Based on research findings and feedback, the proposed working group consolidates all research reports. In the current academic year, three Dean's Down-hall Meetings have been held. Despite uncontrollable external factors, the first two Dean's meetings were conducted online, facilitating feedback. However, during the third Dean's meeting, college leaders attended in person to address accumulated concerns. Issues raised in proposals, such as insect control in college buildings, Honor Code lectures, and fire safety awareness, were promptly resolved. The college gains a clear understanding of student demands through the Student Union, while students have an accessible platform to express their thoughts, fostering a close-knit community within the college.

Third, fostering international connections: student union's efforts with international students.

As a pioneer of Sino-foreign cooperation in education, UM-SJTU Joint Institute maintains a close connection with international students, owing much to the diligent efforts of the Student Union. During the recruitment process this year, the Student Union released official English versions of department recruitment notices, specifically targeting international students. For example, in the Liaison Department, international students comprise 25% of the overall department size, further promoting their participation within the Student Union. What's more, international students are actively involved in various activities. For instance, Assel's performance at the opening ceremony of the cultural festival received high praise, and she also excelled in subsequent Top Ten Singers competitions. International students participate enthusiastically in sports events and engage in activities showcasing intangible cultural heritage. The Student Union strives to integrate international and Chinese student communities, promoting exchange and fostering harmonious relationships among students.

Through internal meetings, addressing student rights, and fostering connections with international students, the Student Union plays a vital role in facilitating student engagement, safeguarding student rights, and enhancing student satisfaction. The achievements of the Student Union demonstrate its strong organizational coherence and effective operations, creating a conducive learning and developmental environment for students.

Part 3

Creativity: Cultivate JI Culture

First, we spread JI culture with multimedia and cultural products.

Throughout the years, our Student Union has been dedicated to creating and promoting the unique and distinctive culture of Joint Institute. The Student Union's official WeChat account, JIers, has accumulated about 5,000 followers. In the past year, it has published a total of 150 articles with approximately 170,000 views, sharing various activities and events happening within the institute, greatly beloved by students and faculty alike.

In addition to online media, our Student Union also places great emphasis on physical creative outputs. During freshmen enrollment, we created a freshman guide map, a blue tiger signature wall, and a photo frame for everyone to gain their first memory of JI family. The handbooks 'JI Encyclopedia' and 'Embark at JI' help new students understand the courses, international programs, student organizations, and the diverse and vibrant life at JI.

As the most iconic mascot, the adorable Blue Tiger has gained immense popularity among students, faculty, and parents both inside and outside the college. The JI Store fully utilizes the Blue Tiger, offering clothing accessories such as hoodies, canvas bags, and keychains, as well as digital accessories including phone cases, mouse pads, and keyboard keycaps. They also provide practical products like sports towels and water bottles, integrating blue tiger culture into every aspect of student and faculty life. Moreover, the JI Store has expanded its physical presence and brand promotion through activities such as freshmen orientation, Star Week, and SJTU anniversary. Notably, 'Seeking the Fragrance of Tradition, Gathering the Essence of Imagination' JI Creative Design Competition allows students to experience the charm of Chinese cultural art through the production of traditional crafts. Simultaneously, it provides a platform for creative design, empowering students to contribute their innovative creations that are widely appreciated by the community.

Second, we innovate publicity approach to establish JI brand within SJTU.

The 17th Student Union innovatively launched the "JISU One Day Tour" WeChat mini game, which uses interactive storytelling to introduce the stories behind the activities held by each department. The game includes traditional large-scale events such as the Spring Ball and Down-Hall meeting, as well as intriguing stories like the "Micro Light" exhibition and the JI luncheon party. As a window for the Student Union to showcase itself to the outside world, it aims to enhance the visibility and influence of our brand activities.

Besides brand-new media, we also publicize JISU on a wider stage. During Star Week, the evaluation of outstanding student unions in SJTU, our Student Union achieved a historic breakthrough by winning the Silver Award. It is an important step in enhancing JI's reputation within SJTU. In the final presentation, our delegation jointly explores the topic of whether student work should be serious or relaxed. We showcased a team atmosphere that combine seriousness and excitement, responsibility and brilliance. The results of the Star Week evaluation affirm the devotion of our Student Union in the past year and inspire our members to remain committed to our service mission and continue to produce outstanding activities and high-quality work outcomes in all aspects.

Part 4 Our Future

Seventeen years have swiftly passed, and in the blink of an eye, our Student Union has reached the age of eighteen. Throughout this time, it has grown and progressed alongside our institute, consistently embracing innovation and surpassing its limits. It has remained committed to self-development and reinvention, serving as a perpetual source of youth and vitality. The past year has been a testament to the Student Union's endeavors, as the principles of "Guard, Connection, Creativity" have written a remarkable chapter in its history. Today, we entrust the weighty responsibility to the 18th presidium of JI Student Union, hoping they will continue to compose a more splendid poem for our college and shape a brighter future. With this in mind, we lay forth our aspirations for what lies ahead.

First, consolidate student-centered services.

JI Student Union has always been committed to serving the students, guiding their development, and addressing their needs. We expect the next presidium to consolidate the achievements of our reforms, enhance its influence, and appeal to the students. We encourage you to further optimize the organizational structure, explore innovative approaches to operation, and foster a stronger sense of identity and trust among the students.

Second, foster a collective culture and shared memories.

As our Student Union comes to its 18th year, we reflect on the growth and achievements of past generations. Xin Hongyi, a member of the 3rd Student Union, returned to our institute as an associate professor, after completing his Ph.D. at Carnegie Mellon University. Liu Zongchang, from the 4th Student Union, made outstanding contributions to the development of our Student Union. The phrase "We Are Family" coined during his time still resonates with us today. He currently holds the position of Vice General Manager and Chief Data Officer at Foxconn Industrial Internet. Wang Yuzhou, a member of the 5th Student Union, expressed that "life is different because of our institute and the world is different because of our institute." After graduation, he pursued further studies at Harvard University and Stanford University. He currently serves as an investment director at SoftBank China. We urge the new presidium to cultivate a shared culture and memories, promoting the development of a strong bond among students. We hope you will continue to strengthen the student's connection to the vision and culture of our institute.

Third, enhance interdepartmental collaboration.

Collaboration with other student organizations has been crucial to our development. We encourage the incoming presidium to maintain strong relationships with other student unions within SJTU, fostering a supportive environment for mutual growth and exploring new approaches to student organization work.

Last but not least, protect student rights and fulfilling the mission of student service.

As the largest and most influential student organization in Joint Institute, our Student Union serves as a bridge between students and faculty. We expect the new presidium to prioritize student rights, engage with the student in person, and fulfill your responsibilities effectively. By gaining trust and raising voices for the fellows, our Student Union can address their concerns and safeguard their rights diligently.

As the 17th year of UM-SJTU JI Student Union draws to a close, we express our heartfelt gratitude to all those who have contributed to our student union. The journey of the 17th JI Student Union has been filled with stories of growth, collaboration, and dedication. We are confident that the memories and influence of this year will be cherished. With great anticipation, we pass the baton to the incoming 18th Student Union, who will continue to carry the aspirations and dreams of JI students, aiming for even greater accomplishments.

In closing, we leave you with a phrase cherished by generations of JISU:
"In Joint Institute, everything is possible." Let us all witness the bright future ahead for our college.

Thanks for listening.
